Investment Strategy
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Underlying Fund invests at least two-thirds in equities and equity related securities of companies based, or carrying out much of their business in Asia Pacific (excluding Japan). The Underlying Fund may invest up to 30% of its net assets in Mainland China equity and equity-related securities, although only up to 20% may be invested directly through QFI regime, the Shanghai-Hong Kong and Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect programme or by any other available means. The Underlying Fund is actively managed. The benchmark is used as a reference point for portfolio construction and as a basis for setting risk constraints. In order to achieve its objective, the Underlying Fund will take positions whose weightings diverge from the benchmark or invest in securities which are not included in the benchmark. The investments of the Underlying Fund may deviate significantly from the components and their weightings in the benchmark. Due to the active nature of the management process, the Underlying Fund's performance profile may deviate significantly from that of the benchmark over the longer term. The Manager integrate environmental, social and governance (ESG) considerations within the investment process. Details of the Equity ESG Integration Approach are published at www.abrdn.com under "Sustainable Investing". Derivatives will only be used for hedging or to provide exposures that could be achieved through investment in the assets in which the Underlying Fund is primarily invested. Usage of derivatives is monitored to ensure that the Underlying Fund is not exposed to excessive or unintended risks. 	Refer to Page 32 of the Underlying Fund's Prospectus for further information on the investment strategy of the Sub-Fund.

Product-Specific Risks
You are exposed to Equity Risk. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The value of the Underlying Fund that invests in equity and equity-related securities will be affected by economic, political, market, and issuer specific changes. Such changes may adversely affect securities, regardless of company specific performance. You are exposed to Specific Regional Market Risk. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Underlying Fund invests in a specific regional market sector, which is the Asia Pacific countries (excluding Japan) and is likely to be more volatile than a more widely invested fund. You are exposed to Derivatives Risk. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Derivatives may be used for hedging or efficient portfolio management. In adverse situation, the Underlying Fund’s use of financial derivative instruments may become ineffective, and the Underlying Fund may suffer significant losses. You are exposed to Emerging Markets Risk. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Underlying Fund invests in equity and equity-related securities across the Asia Pacific region (excluding Japan), thereby providing exposure to emerging markets which tend to be more volatile than mature markets and the value could move sharply up or down. In some circumstances, the underlying investments may become less liquid which may constrain the Underlying Fund’s Investment Manager’s ability to realise some or all of the portfolio. The registration and settlement arrangements in emerging markets may be less developed than in more mature markets so the operational risks of investing are higher. Political risks and adverse economic circumstances are more likely to arise, putting the value of the investment at risk. You are exposed to Exchange Rates Risk. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Underlying Fund may invest in securities denominated in a number of different currencies other than the base currency in which the Underlying Fund is denominated. Changes in foreign currency exchange rates may adversely affect the value of the Underlying Fund’s investments and the income thereon. Investing in China A shares involves special considerations and risks, including greater price volatility, a less developed regulatory and legal framework, exchange rate risk/controls, settlement, tax, quota, liquidity and regulatory risks. The Underlying Fund may invest in companies with Variable Interest Entity (VIE) structures in order to gain exposure to industries with foreign ownership restrictions. There is a risk that investments in these structures may be adversely affected by changes in the legal and regulatory framework. Investing in China A shares involves special considerations and risks, including greater price volatility, a less developed regulatory and legal framework, exchange rate risk/controls, settlement, tax, quota, liquidity and regulatory risks. The use of derivatives carries the risk of reduced liquidity, substantial loss and increased volatility in adverse market conditions, such as a failure amongst market participants. The use of derivatives may result in the Underlying Fund being leveraged (where market exposure and thus the potential for loss by the Underlying Fund exceeds the amount it has invested) and in these market conditions the effect of leverage will be to magnify losses.
