Risks

In addition to the risks stated in the Product Summary, the risks may include:

General Risks

Potential policyholders should consider and satisfy themselves as to the risks of investing in the LionGlobal Japan Growth Fund. Generally, some of the risk factors that should be considered by potential policyholders are market, derivatives, liquidity, political, repatriation, regulatory, currency and risks associated with investments in smaller companies and in debt securities which are default and interest rate risks. An investment in the LionGlobal Japan Growth Fund is meant to produce returns over the long-term. Potential policyholders should not expect to obtain short-term gains from such investment. Potential policyholders should note that the value of Units, and the income accruing to the Units, may fall or rise and that potential policyholders may not get back their original investment.

Market Risks

The risks of investing and participating in securities quoted or listed in any Recognised Stock Exchange or OTC Market and unlisted securities in Japan apply. Prices of securities may go up or down in response to changes in economic conditions, interest rates, and the market's perception of securities. These may cause the price of Units in the Underlying Fund to go up or down as the price of Units in the Underlying Fund is based on the current market value of the investments of the Underlying Fund.

There are risks in investing in bonds and other fixed income securities. Bond prices may go up or down in response to interest rates with increases in interest rates leading to falling bond prices.

The market prices of bonds and other fixed income securities are also affected by credit risks, such as risk of default by issuers and liquidity risk.

Derivatives Risks

An Underlying Fund may, subject to applicable investment guidelines in the Code and the Deed, from time to time invest in derivatives, which are financial contracts whose value depend on, or is derived from, the value of an underlying asset, reference rate or index. Such assets, rates and indices may include bonds, shares, interest rates, currency exchange rates, bond indices and stock indices.

While the judicious use of derivatives by professional investment managers can be beneficial, derivatives involve risks different from, and, in some cases, greater than, the risks presented by more traditional securities investments. Some of the risks associated with derivatives are market risk, management risk, credit risk, liquidity risk and leverage risk.

As the viability of exercising derivative instruments depends on the market price of the investments to which they relate, it may be the case that we may from time to time consider it not viable to exercise certain derivatives held by the Underlying Fund within the prescribed period, in which case any costs incurred in obtaining the derivatives will not be recoverable. There is also the risk that the market price of the relevant investment will not exceed the exercise price attached to the derivative instruments at any time during the exercise period or at the time at which the warrants or options are exercised and this may result in an immediate loss to the Underlying Fund.

Political Risks

The political situation in the countries may have an effect on the value of the securities of companies in whose securities an Underlying Fund has invested, which may in turn impact on the value of the Units in the Underlying Fund.

Currency Risks

As the investments of the Underlying Fund may be denominated in foreign currencies, fluctuations of the exchange rates of foreign currencies against the respective base currencies of an Underlying Fund may affect the value of the Units in the Underlying Fund. They may from time to time employ currency hedging techniques to manage the impact of the exchange rate fluctuations on an Underlying Fund and/or for the purpose of efficient portfolio management. Underlying Funds that are not denominated in Singapore dollars will not be fully hedged against foreign currency exposure and Holders of such Underlying Funds will be exposed to foreign exchange rate risks.

Risks associated with investments in smaller companies

Although smaller companies present more potential for growth, investing in smaller companies may present greater risk in comparison to investing in larger companies, for example, higher stock price volatility due to lower trading volume and a narrow range of investors. They will attempt to minimise the risks through a diversified portfolio.

Risks associated with investments in debt securities

(i) Default Risks

Investments in debt securities are subject to adverse changes in the financial condition of the issuer, or in general economic conditions, or both, or an unanticipated rise in interest rates, which may impair the ability of the issuer to make payments of interest and principal, especially if the issuer is highly leveraged. Such issuer's ability to meet its debt obligations may also be adversely affected by specific corporate developments, or the issuer's inability to meet specific projected business forecasts, or the unavailability of additional financing. Also, an economic downturn or an increase in interest rates may increase the potential for default by the issuers of these securities.

(ii) Interest-rate Risks

Investments in debt securities are also subject to the risk of interest-rate fluctuations, and the prices of debt securities may go up or down in response to such fluctuations in interest rates.

The above should not be considered as an exhaustive list of the risks which potential policyholders should consider before investing in LionGlobal Japan Growth Fund. Potential policyholders should be aware that an investment in LionGlobal Japan Growth Fund may be exposed to other risks of an exceptional nature from time to time.
