Market and Credit Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Equity markets are volatile and can decline significantly in response to issuer, market, economic, industry, political, regulatory, geopolitical, public health and other conditions, as well as to investor perceptions of these conditions. The price of an equity security can decrease significantly in response to these conditions, and these conditions can affect a single issuer or type of security, issuers within a broad market sector, industry or geographic region, or the market in general.</li> <li>• The equity securities of large cap companies can underperform the overall equity market.</li> </ul>

Market and Credit Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Exposure to emerging markets can involve additional risks relating to market, economic, political, regulatory, geopolitical, or other conditions. These factors can make emerging markets investments more volatile and less liquid than developed markets investments. Emerging markets can have less developed markets and less developed legal, regulatory, and accounting systems, and greater political, social, and economic instability than developed markets.</li> <li>To the extent the Underlying Fund invests a relatively large percentage of its assets in a single region, the Fund's performance would be closely tied to the market, currency, economic, political, regulatory, geopolitical, or other conditions in that region.</li> </ul>
Liquidity Risks
The ILP sub-fund is not listed on the Singapore Exchange and you can redeem only on Business Days through Singapore Life Ltd. In respect of Singapore investors, there is no secondary market for the ILP sub-fund.
Product-Specific Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Derivatives can be used to take both long and synthetic short positions (i.e., the value of a derivative can be positively or negatively related to the value of the underlying indicator(s) on which the derivative is based). Derivatives can be highly volatile and involve risks in addition to the risks of the underlying indicator(s). Gains or losses from derivatives can be substantially greater than the derivatives' original cost and can involve leverage.</li> <li>Currency rates fluctuate in response to market, economic, political, regulatory, geopolitical or other conditions. Because a Fund can invest in instruments issued in currencies other than the Fund's base currency or share class currency, changes in currency rates can affect the value of such instrument and the value of your investment. Investors whose financial transactions are primarily in currencies other than the base currency of the Underlying Fund (USD) or the currency of the class should consider the potential risk of loss from the fluctuations in the rate of exchange between such currencies. Currency rate changes may also affect the financial condition of the issuers in which the Underlying Fund invests.</li> <li>The Investment Manager's investment analysis and its selection of investments may not produce the intended results and/or can lead to an investment focus that results in the Underlying Fund underperforming other funds with similar investment strategies and/or underperforming the markets in which the Underlying Fund invests. In addition, the Underlying Fund's promotion of the MFS Low Carbon Transition characteristic may affect the composition of the Underlying Fund, and may result in purchase and sales decisions that negatively impact the investment performance of the Underlying Fund.</li> <li>There can be no guarantee that the Underlying Fund will achieve its investment objective. The value of your investment can go down as well as up and you may not get back the amount invested.</li> </ul>
